

Marisa H. Miceli, MD

Dr Miceli is an Associate Professor in the Division of Infectious Diseases at the University of Michigan Medical School. She specializes in Medical Mycology and Transplant Infectious Diseases.

Dr. Miceli is active in both direct patient care and clinical research. Her scholarly work focuses on addressing unmet needs in the diagnosis of invasive fungal infections and in the treatment of patients with these diseases. Dr. Miceli is the Principal Investigator for several Phase 2 and 3 clinical trials for the study of novel antifungal agents. Dr. Miceli teaches and mentors Infectious Diseases Fellows and Internal Medicine Residents in the field of transplant Infectious diseases and medical mycology.

Dr Miceli has published more than 80 manuscripts in peer-reviewed journals, including Clinical Infectious Diseases, The Lancet Infectious Diseases, Infectious Disease Clinics of North America, Mycoses, and Transplant Infectious Diseases. She also has published 8 book chapters. She reviews for more than 15 journals and is an Editorial Board Member for Mycopathologia and Journal of Fungi. Dr. Miceli serves as Treasurer in the Board of Directors of the Mycoses Study Group Education and Research Consortium; she is a Fellow of the American College of Physicians and the Infectious Diseases Society of America.